'86. MAYORALTY. '86.

To the Elector's of the City of Brandon:

GENTLEMEN,—The relations I have borne to the City of Brandon for some time past, as a representative at the Council Board, seemed to render my retirement both proper and desirable at the close of the present year.

Repeated requests of former opponents as well as supporters to become a candidate for the Mayoralty for the ensuing year I can hardly refuse, and will, in consequence, again solicit your suffrages.

Of my fitness for the position I have only to refer you to my past record, and the assurance that my constant purpose, if again elected, will be to see that the city's affairs are so managed that her welfare and future interests will thereby be best promoted.

I have the honor to be,

Gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,

Jas. A. Smart.

A special to the Globe from Ottawa says that at the coming session of Parliament the Canadian Pacific Railway Company will ask further public aid to enable them to consolidate and develop the whole railway system of the Maritime Provinces. They are anxious to secure contracts for the construction of all railways subsidized by the Dominion Government, the aim being to monopolize the control of Canadian railway lines east of Montreal. The Government will hand over to the Canadian Pacific Company without charge that portion of the Intercolonial Railway, between St. John and Halifax, and the company will ask a subsidy of $10,000,000 to enable them to buy all railways owned by other corporations in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, as well as build connecting links.

A special train of twenty-one cars of wheat, made up at Virden, Manitoba, has arrived at Montreal. The run from Winnipeg was made in five and a half days, which includes all stoppages.

Lockey who used to be with Mr. A. Lang in the brick manufacturing business, is creating heaps of amusement for himself these times. It appears that John Frank is living in his house, and Frank says that for some time he was confident all was not right between Lockey and his (Frank's) wife. In a triangular war of words Lockey kicked Frank one day last week, and kept himself out of the way to avoid arrest. In the interval, as the story goes, Mrs. Frank decided to go to Winnipeg, on the train on Tuesday, week taking a couple of her children along with her, and Frank seeing her off on the train. As the train was about to move out Lockey turned up, and boarded it also. He was to have returned on Thursday, and as he did not do so, Frank concluded his wife and Lockey had gone off together, and was in heart to bid them God speed. However Lockey turned up on Tuesday, and was arrested by chief McMillan, fined $15 for the assault on Lockey, and bound over to keep the peace. While under arrest he proceeded to the Merchants' bank under the eye of the chief, and tried to draw some money to the credit of Mrs. Frank, on a cheque signed by her. The chief stopped this game and Mr. W. A. Macdonald subsequently garnished the money for Frank. As Lockey would get no bail—he was forced to spend Monday night in the cooler, while Mrs. Frank was forced to sing that well known song:—

"I'm lonely to night, love, without you,
And I sigh for one glance of your eye."

"Respectably Dressed."

BY THE LATE HELEN HUNT JACKSON.

"An unknown man, respectfully dressed."

That was all that the record said;

Wondering pity might guess the rest:

One thing was sure, the man was dead.

And dead, because he'd no heart to live;

His courage had faltered and failed the test.

How little the all we now can give,

A nameless sod to cover his breast.

"Respectably dressed!" the thoughtless read

The sentence over and idly say:

What was it then, since it was not need.

Which made him thus fling his life away?"

"Respectably dressed!" How little they know

Who never have been for money pressed,

What it costs respectable poor to go

Day after day "respectably dressed!"

The beggars on sidewalks suffer less—

They herd all together, clan and clan;

Alike and coal in wretchedness,

No room for pride between man and man.

Nothing to lose by rags or dirt—

More often something is gained instead,

Nothing to fear but bodily hurt.

Nothing to hope for save daily bread.

But respectable poor have all to lose

For the world to know, means loss and shame.

They'd rather die, if they had to choose;

Than cling as for life to place and name.

Cling, and pretend, and conceal, and hide,

Never an hour but its terror bears:

Terror which slinks like guilt to one side,

And often a guiltier conscience wears.

"Respectably dressed!" to the last; aye, last!

Last dollar, last crust, last proud pulse-beat.

Starved body, starved soul, hope dead and past:

What wonder that any death looks sweet.

"An unknown man, respectfully dressed."

That was all the record said.

When will the question let us rest:

Is it fault of ours that the man was dead?

Portage La Prairie.A Circular Issue to the Creditors of the Town

The council of the town of Portage la Prairie, finding it impossible to meet its obligations in full, has issued a circular to its creditors. It reviews the revenues and expenditures since the incorporation of the town, and explains the present financial position. It is pointed out that the inflation caused by the boom is the cause of the trouble, and that, taking into consideration the present assessment, which is even higher than the real value of the property, it is plain the town is not able to pay the interest on its debt. While it is clear that the town cannot in its present position raise money enough to pay the interest upon its debt, besides keeping the town and School Board running, it is also clear that the creditors can, if they feel inclined, push matters to an extreme, and put an end to the value of property within the town. When the matter is looked into, it will be seen that unless a town has an assessment large enough to enable it, by levying a rate which property-holders can afford to pay, to raise money enough sufficient to meet the necessary running expenses and the interest upon its debt, then the holders of claims against the town are not in a position to realize, as their only security is the ability of the town to pay them by taxing the property within its limits. The disastrous effects that would follow an attempt to realize the debt through the sheriff are pointed out, as also that the probabilities are strongly in favor of the town being able to meet the principal of its debt if given time.

The council therefore makes the following propositions:—

1. The Manitoba Legislature to be asked at its next session to pass a private act of Parliament embodying the agreement which may be arrived at.

2. The rate of taxation in the town to be limited so as not to exceed two cents on the dollar.

3. Five mills on the dollar of such rate to be called the debenture rate, and to be kept separate in the rolls and books of the town and to be paid over at such short intervals and to such chartered bank as may be suggested by the creditors.

4. The creditors to be entitled to withdraw such money from such bank pro rata according to the amount of their respective claims, every six months.

5. The creditors to accept such half-yearly dividend in full of interest for the half-year, the town, however, guaranteeing that such interest shall amount to at least two per cent, per annum.

6. The time of payment of the principal of all claims against the town to be extended until five years after such rate of 5 mills on the dollar realizes 6 per cent, on the whole debt.

7. The property in the town to be assessed at its actual value, and any creditor of the town to have the right to appeal (in the manner provided in the statutes from time to time in force) against the whole or any portion of the assessment.

8. The town to be absolutely prohibited from incurring any further liability of any kind whatsoever.

9. All the present executions in the hands of the sheriff to be withdrawn, and the judgement held by the school board not to be included by the town's liabilities.

There are about $45,000 of arrears of taxes standing in the books of the town. It is feared that a large portion of these taxes is uncollectable. An endeavor was made last fall to collect them by holding a tax sale, and most of the taxes on property worth anything was paid in.

If a settlement of the present difficulties is arranged it is possible a good deal of this money may be collected.

The council submit that accepting the above proposed settlement the creditors will recover more than by taking the harsh methods provided by law. They will in fact get all in the way of interest the town can afford to pay, and if the future turns out well they will be paid in full. If such an Act of Parliament were passed the confidence of people in the town would be restored and property would be freely transferred. At present in fear of the large debt property has scarcely any value. Nothing whatever can be raised on it by way of loan; and the few sales made are at a very low sacrifice.

ANOTHER BATTLE.A Desperate Conflict Between Bulgarians and Servians.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—The Daily News has a despatch from Sofia confirming the report of a Bulgarian victory. The Servians lost ten guns and 356 horses, and it is estimated that three thousand Servians were killed or wounded. The Bulgarians on Tuesday captured two hundred Servian cavalry. The Bulgarians have again repulsed attacks on Dragomen.

The Daily Telegraph says:—It is almost sure that Greece will go to war. A captain of the Greek Navy has started for London to purchase men-of-war.

A despatch from Sofia says: Troops are arriving here from Roumelia. 25,000 Servians were engaged yesterday near Slivnitsa, while there were only 15,000 Bulgarians in the engagement. There was desperate fighting at Slivnitsa to-day. The Bulgarians forcing the Servians' right wing back at the point of the bayonet for several kilometres, with great losses. It is reported the Servians fired upon the Red Cross ambulances. A militia force from Widdin has made a successful inroad into Serbia, capturing 150 prisoners. The Servians retreated in disorder from Butchino, Smolecha and Puden.

The following account is from Tzaribrod: The Servians found the Bulgarians of unexpected strength at Slavnitza. The Servians, after continuous fighting for eighteen hours, are slowly pressing Prince Alexander towards Sofia, the Bulgarians disputing every inch. Thirty thousand Servians were engaged in yesterday's fighting at Slivnitsa.

A despatch from Belgrade says: Queen Natalie has received a telegram from Galtchar announcing the fall of Widdin. The same despatch says that a portion of Amorava division, after a severe fight captured Radomir. Four hundred prisoners have arrived at Belgrade from the front. The Prefect of Tein announces that the Servian inhabitants of that place who took refuge in Serbia are at liberty to return. Official Servian reports say that on King Milan arrived at Dasaribrod, he was welcomed by the inhabitants as the "Liberator." The Servians have met with an enthusiastic reception at every place in Bulgaria. The people have made many complaints against the Bulgarian administration, especially against its tribunals.

A dispatch from Tzaribrod to the Standard says: A decisive attack was delayed until all the Servian columns had been concentrated. A heavy cannonade was kept up through the day and several sham attacks were made. A private telegram was received at Belgrade stating all the troops, comprising the Widdin garrison, have been made prisoners.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—The Times says: It is reported that Turkey and Servia have agreed to arrange the conditions of peace after the capture of Sofia. Turkey prefers a strong Servia to a strong Bulgaria, but also desired to save Prince Alexander's position as much as possible. Servia, likewise, does not wish to personally humiliate Prince Alexander. Advances from Belgrade say that the Servian administration has been arranged for all occupied, it is claimed, display, a friendly spirit toward the Servians.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 18.—The Porte has sent to the Powers a formal protest against the Servian invasion of Bulgaria. Turkey reserves the right to take military action in the matter.

PARIS, Nov. 18.—M. Philemon, mayor of Athens, in an interview with M. De Freycinet, Minister of Foreign Affairs, explained to him the reason why Greece was unable to remain inactive during the present struggle in the Balkans, and said that Greece would be obliged shortly to invade Ottoman territory. M. Philemon appealed for French sympathy. M. De Freycinet replied that he was unable to enter into a discussion with M. Philemon on the subject.

SOBIA, Nov. 18.—A telegram states that the Bulgarian troops recaptured Bresnik and dispersed the Servians. No fears are entertained at present for the safety of Sofia.

VIENNA, Nov. 18.—The Neue Freie Presse has a report that Prince Alexander has been wounded.

RIEL'S REMAINS.

Montreal, Nov. 18.—The former comrades of Riel in the school he attended here have been mourning for a month in respect to his memory.

Le Monde this evening issued a bulletin which stated that Madame Riel in a despatch had expressed her willingness to have her son interred here beside the graves of the patriots of 1837. It is proposed to invite Madame Riel and her family to take up their residence in this city, and to establish a fund for her support. A deputation of members of the Club Cartier has waited upon Senator Lacoste and requested him to accept the leadership of the Conservative wing of the French national party, which is to be built upon the Riel question. Mr. Lacoste asked a few days' time to consider the matter. He also intimated that he would first require to hear explanations of the French Canadian Ministers. Two hundred French Canadian students together with some quarry men and others, numbering about eight hundred, paraded the streets to-night. The quarrymen carried axe handles, clubs and thighbones. They shoved people from the sidewalks, frightened horses, and committed other aggressive acts. It was thought at one time they would attack the Salvation Army Hall. They have threatened to attack LaMinerve office to-morrow night. About two hundred and fifty men of the 6th Fusiliers had assembled at Dominion Square to be in readiness to meet the French Canadians should they attempt to carry out their purpose of burning Col. Stephen in effigy on the square. It is stated that to-night's demonstration was the result of information which the students of Victoria University had received during the day that the students of McGill (English) University intended to burn Riel in effigy on the Champ de Mars to-night.

SAVED BY A SECOND.

How Reprieve was Delayed by a Break in the Telegraph Wires.

"The most impressive sight I ever saw I think was at Harper's Ferry in '65," said Detective C. W. McElroy. The detective is a member of Perkins' Agency, and was at one time sheriff of Oswego county, N. Y. The conversation was brought about by a remark upon the impressiveness of the funeral services over General Grant.

"The sight of a man going to his own funeral, with the band playing a lead march, is calculated to impress one," he continued. "That is the case you know, with a man condemned to death by a court martial. The case of which I spoke happened in January, 1865, and the wonderful escape of the condemned parties is something I shall never forget. Two men, John Shea and Michael Doane, had been sentenced to be shot for desertion. There was considerable feeling in favor of the men. It was in the time of big bounties, and the two young men had enlisted for something like $1,000 a piece. In a few days both were missing and were not caught for three or four weeks. They were drunk and their money was about gone. The truth of the matter was that it was no case of vital desertion. The men had got on a drunk and had never sobered up enough to realize their position. They were badly frightened, and were attended by two priests. I can remember the place well. They were marched upon a little level on a level plateau, and the soldiers thrown into a hollow square. The two men, accompanied by their priests, and preceded by the band playing the 'Dead March,' were marched around the inside of this square and stopped nearly in the centre by the side of their open coffins. The priests were in earnest conversation with them, and the minutes rolled by till they grew into an hour. Twelve o'clock came, and General Stevenson gave orders for the priests to leave the men. Very reluctantly they did so, prolonging their leave taking upon one pretext or another as long as they could. Everything was at last made ready, and it was only a matter of seconds between the men and eternity, when the General's orderly rode up, swinging his hat and yelling at the top of his voice. It was a reprieve from Lincoln.

"It seems that the priests had telegraphed the President the night before, asking for a reprieve, and stating that there were mitigating circumstances. Lincoln, who was always looking for an excuse to save a man's life reprieved them. Gen. Stevenson's headquarters were nearly a mile from where we were, and the telegraph office was at his headquarters. He had left a mounted orderly there with instructions to rush through any dispatch that came. Nothing came until a few minutes before twelve, and the orderly dashed away. He had to go up a steep hill, nearly half a mile long. When he reached the top his horse was badly winded and could hardly go. He met a citizen on a good horse, and without any ceremony pulled the gentleman down and mounted the fresh animal. Half a minute's delay would have been the last of Messrs. Doane and Shea.

"A strange part of the story is yet to come: Some three years afterward I met an old telegraph operator in Oswego. He was in Washington in the winter of '64 and '65. We got to talking over war matters, and I found that he remembered the case I have told you about. He was in charge of the wire leading to Harper's Ferry. He had heard of the two men who were to be executed there, through the operator. They had discussed the matter over the wires. Consequently he remembered the case well. Upon the morning of the execution, at 10 o'clock, the dispatch relieving them was handed to him to send out. He turned to his desk, and what was his horror to find that he couldn't work the wires. A storm was in progress, or something else was the matter. At any rate, the wire would not work. There was no other way of reaching Harper's Ferry. The dispatch he did not get off until just before 12 o'clock, but, as it happened, in good time; but he told me it was an experience he would never forget. Altogether, it was a pretty close shave for the two men, and I don't believe they ever forgot the incident either."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

THE RIEL FAMILY.

Rev. Father McWilliams drove out to St. Vital yesterday afternoon in company with one of the Fathers of the Cathedral to visit the Riel family. He found the aged mother, the widow and two children of Louis, and the brother Joseph and his wife in the deepest affliction, and quite a large number of their friends and neighbors assembled with them to comfort them. Father McWilliams addressed them in English, informing them of the manner in which the condemned man had conducted himself during his last hours and how he had received the rites of his church and had been constantly attended and advised by his spiritual guides. The sorrowing family received comfort from the knowledge that the unfortunate man had had his spiritual interests so well cared for, and with so evidently good results, as shown in the fact of his meeting his death so bravely and yet with such humility and submission and so earnest a desire to receive and to extend forgiveness. The statement of Rev. Father McWilliams was repeated in French by the Father who accompanied him. After remaining about three-quarters of an hour the fathers returned to the city. The news of the hanging had already reached the family, having been broken to them by a priest with His Grace, the Archbishop, sent immediately on receiving the telegram informing him that the execution had really taken place. On the arrival of the father a requiem mass was celebrated for the repose of the soul of the departed. Father McWilliams expressed himself as very much pleased with the evidences which he saw of the Riel family. The walls of their house were hung around with devotional pictures and other emblems of their faith. He thinks that if the facts which he observed can be taken as indicative of the religious feeling of the people, the Catholics of this country must occupy a high position as compared with others in their devotion to their religion.

THE FREE PRESS AND CONSISTENCY.

The maliciousness of the Free Press, in dealing with any subject in which it can in any way involve the name of Sir John Macdonald, must be amusing to any one who is inclined to take the charitable view of a monomaniac. In its Saturday's issue the print says:

"We say the fact remains that the half-breeds had no substantial grievance while the Reformers were in power, nor had they during the earlier years of the present administration. They may have thought they were entitled to the immediate possession of documentary evidence confirming them in the ownership of their lands. But, if so, they were mistaken. Canada could not afford to disarrange her whole plans for their benefit. More particularly as they were given the most ample assurance by the MacKenzie government that they would ultimately be confirmed in their holdings. It was not until the territory occupied by them had been surveyed and they were still refused the fulfilment of the promises which they had received that the half-breeds became justifiably restive."

If the "restiveness" of the half-breeds was occasioned by the fact they did not get patents as soon as surveys were made, then their quillness under the MacKenzie regime is easily explained—it was because the Grit government made but a few hundred surveys during their entire term of office, and would have made but a few more to this day had they remained in office. It was then by inaction on the part of the Grit government that a North-West rebellion was averted during the MacKenzie regime, though it was by their inaction that many another calamity such as the depression of 1877-8, was brought about. The misfortune, then, according to the Grit print's showing is altogether attributable to the fact the present government moved with activity towards the opening up and settling of the country. A commission was appointed a year before there was any sign of an outbreak, to examine into the true state of affairs, and to report as to who were and who were not, of these half-breeds, entitled to patents, and because the present government did not "disarrange its whole plans for their benefit," which the Free Press declares was out of the question under Grit rule, and recommend patents before the time had arrived when this step at Canada's convenience could be properly done—the rebellion burst forth, and the Free Press now holds the government responsible for it. The windings of the Grit prints to have a thrust at their political opponents form a rather complicated stair-case to the common sense observer.

An advertisement by D. L. MacKenzie, of Winnipeg, in the Toronto Globe, ought to open the eyes of the farmers of this country, as to the real aims and achievements of the Farmers' Union. Mr. MacKenzie advertises for tenders from the Ontario millers and dealers, for the wheat and other purchases of the Union, and announces himself as sole agent for handling the same. The fact then is that the Ontario and not the English market has to make the price of grain sold by the Union, and before even that is realized, the percentages of MacKenzie, Purvis, and the local buyers, and the elevator charges have to be deducted. This is simply deplorable, after all the fine speeches of the Unionists that have taken up so many columns of the Grit papers of the country, during the past year. We heartily sympathize with the farmers of this country, in any laudable effort they may make to better their condition as a community, but we must say no improvement need be expected through the Union as a helper, while things are conducted in this way. It is just as easy for the farmers themselves to get the highest price in Ontario, by samples, as it is for D. L. MacKenzie to do it, and why the Union should not sell direct, and save the percentages paid to Purvis and MacKenzie, is what we cannot understand. Every one knows that, except in the case of a shortage in Ontario, it is the English and not the Ontario price of wheat that governs the price in this country, and why the Union should not themselves ship direct to England, instead of Ontario through MacKenzie, is what no common sense man can understand. Such an organization, properly constituted ought to have ere this such English connections completed as would enable them to pay in this country the highest price the English market would allow, instead of tinkering with several local agents. Two years ago there was not a light in the Union that could find language strong enough to denounce "middlemen," and now they have thrown the Union itself body and bones, into the hands of these Philistines, and are settling down to bear with their treatment for all time to come.

One of the most beastly things we have seen in a Grit print for many a day, and that is saying a great deal, appeared in the Free Press as a conversation between Pere Andre and Louis Riel, in the last moments of the latter. The Rev. gentleman is reported as saying to Riel, "Pray for Sir John Macdonald; he is your greatest enemy—it is he that is sending you to the gallows." It is but little wonder that the reader of Grit prints alone should be bigoted and narrow minded, when fed on such trashy falsehood as this, as we are confident it was manufactured out of whole cloth by the Free Press reporter, as it appears in no other print, not even the Toronto Globe. The inference from this is, it is the desire of the Free Press to tell its readers that Riel was an unoffending private gentleman, that he was convicted by Sir John Macdonald without law or reason, and that he was sent to the gallows by the simple order of Sir John, the same as if the whole business was a scene on the cannibal Islands a couple of centuries ago. Every sensible resident of this country knows that Riel was convicted for an act which the law of the land, and not Sir John Macdonald, says is punishable by death. He was tried by the law of the land, before what the Privy Council has decided, was a properly constituted Court, and not before Sir John Macdonald, he was found guilty, and the law was allowed to take its course. Sir John had no more hand in the matter from first to last than the man in the moon, and still a Grit print laying claims to respectability wants to persuade an innocent, credulous people he was the directing spirit in the trial from the commencement. Had Sir John acted in any way in particular, it could only have been to commute the sentence; but as he took no part in the incident from first to last, it is the law of the land, the friends of Riel must regard as responsible for the conviction and execution.

The attempt of the French press to stir up a feeling of regret for the execution of Riel is a most rascally piece of business, consider it as you may. Although he escaped the gallows for his treatment of Scott and other prisoners, in the early history of this country, it left his guilt none the less to this moment. That was one count against him, consider it in any light possible. In his second rebellion, too, his motives were if possible worse than those of the first. He had no interests in this country, and according to his own admissions his objects were to make money rather than to assist in benefiting the condition of the Metis. He asserted on more than one occasion that if Sir John had met his demand, and paid him $35,000 he would have returned to the United States before a single shot was fired. This was the extent of his feeling for his fellow countrymen. He made money out of his first rebellion and he thought he could make more out of a second one, but he reckoned without his host, and it is a matter of surprise to us that the French press does not consider his adventure in this light. They have not a word of sympathy for the Indians, who were duped into the rebellion, by this arch scoundrel, and have paid the penalty, and yet they have no end of sympathy for the vagabond in chief, who brought about the execution of the former. This is honesty and consistency surely. We are heartily glad the government has handled this matter with a firm hand, and shown the people of this country they must all irrespective of creed or nationality be governed by the same impartial laws. It is the only means of guaranteeing safety to a nation.

THE CONTEST.

That the Grits of this city have settled down to business, and decided to fight the coming Civic Elections, on purely party grounds is apparent from every point of view. At the last meeting of the council, Mayor Smart in committee of the whole, named nearly all the polling places, and every one of them is a Grit shop, one of them being the Sun office, and another that of the Attorney-General of the party; he also named returning officers for nearly all the booths, and every one was a Grit. So far, this carries a significance that any man with half an eye can easily read. But the evidences of party efforts do not end with this; the incidents of the past week and the utterances of their print bear the rest of the proof.

As we stated in a late issue, the efforts of some of the party, at least, if not with the knowledge and consent of the rank and file, to stuff the voters' list with bogus votes very naturally aroused the distrust of the Conservatives, and that of some of the latter have now resolved that the party of purity will not be allowed to carry out their designs as they please, and fill the places on the Council Board, at present occupied by efficient public servants, by inexperienced party men, for party purposes, is a circumstance that is not at all to be wondered at.

The first evidence of the design of the party, is shown by the turn of events in the Mayoralty. It was long since known that Mr. Smart did not again desire re-election, and for his place the faithful could find no member of the present Board sufficiently capable. The next step was to unfurl the banner of a new man, a gentleman known as well for his politics as he is for his abilities, though in no way deficient in the latter. After a counting of noses, it was, however, ascertained there was no certainty of electing the latter, and as party exigencies demand that the first position on the Board should be held by a Grit, there was no alternative but fall back on Mr. Smart. That the Conservatives do not desire to carry the election into a party contest, further than is forced upon them, in the attempt to defeat efficient Aldermen, who desire re-election by inexperienced Grits, is shown by the fact they do not desire opposition to Mr. Smart. Neither can this resolve be attributed to cowardice, as Mr. Smart was beaten before, though having secured a large number of Conservative votes by previous pledges.

In the wards, too, the Grits have raised their battle axe high in the air, as every member of the present Board, of Conservative leanings, has a Grit, and in many instances untried and incapable Grits, pitted against him. This is certainly to be regretted. The present council have lopped off everything in the shape of an unnecessary expenditure, they have managed the business so well that a single objection cannot be raised to their management, and reduced taxation to a minimum, and now every member of Tory proclivities is to be treated to a dose of Grit opposition. This is certainly most lamentable. There are gentlemen named as opponents to the present council, and it is no disparagement to say it of them—who are ignorant of a knowledge of the first principles of deliberation, and will naturally lose the best part of a year before they get into the way of doing business. We readily admit that several of the present council were once in the same boat, but now that they have learned council usages, and do their duty faithfully and well, it would be but an act of fanaticism to displace them by others wholly inexperienced.

We offer these remarks as a bit of advice, and we trust our citizens will regard them in the same light.

THE CIVIC ELECTIONS.

Since the publication of our last issue, candidates for Aldermanic honors, have cropped up on every street corner. So far the announcements are as follows, with several back townships yet to hear from:

Ward 1.—Ald. Lee and Messrs. J. Hanbury and McKenzie, of Russell and McKenzie. Ward 2.—Ald. Johnston and Stewart seek re-election, and Messrs. Adams and Todd, say they shall not be returned. In Ward 3. Ald. Dickinson and J. H. Hughes want a second term, and Messrs. A. Burns and A. C. Fraser are disputing the ground with them.

Ward 4. has Ald. Bucke again in the field, and R. Powell, Mr. Anderson and J. Paisley looking for second place.

As we have said before, the electors will do themselves credit by returning the old Alderman whenever they seek re-election. In Ward one Mr. Hanbury appears as new blood, but as he has been a representative before, he can if elected take hold of work the same as if at present a representative.

Mr. Adams in Ward 2. is a good man, but to enter the field after assuring many of his friends he would not seek election is putting things in a disadvantageous light, and the same may in a degree be said of Messrs. Fraser and Burns in Ward three. They are both estimable citizens, and would make good men at the Board; but as they cannot possibly improve on the record of the sitting Aldermen, Hughes and Dickinson, who seek re-election there is no argument for making a change.

Ward four will, of course, do itself credit by placing Ald. Bucke at the head of the poll, and as the voting for the other three candidates will be divided, Powell stands a good chance.

The local Grit print is never in its proper element except when it is misrepresenting some of its political opponents, and Ald. Kavanagh is one of the last to come under its displeasure. Two weeks ago, it went so far out of its way as to lie about him, without qualification in its assertion that he as chairman of the Fire Water and Light Committee, refused to give an order for coal, and as a consequence, the fire engine was almost inoperative at the grist mill fire. In the hearing of the reputed manager of the concern, Ald. Kavanagh, at the last council meeting, declared the statement was false, and he proved it by Engineer Crawford and Ald. Barclay. Nothing daunted the heir of veracity bobs up again serenely in the last issue, and repeats his falsehood with the rider that to him Mr. Crawford qualified the statement he made at the council. What statement this "Manager" may or may not have distorted from Mr. Crawford has nothing to do with the question, as the print was proved guilty of falsehood irrespective of Mr. Crawford's testimony. The cuttle fish game of inking the water, to make good his escape in the dark will not succeed in this case. Better own up to fibbing at once, young man—"an honest confession is good for the soul."

VITAL QUESTIONS.

CHAPTER I.

Ask any or all of the most eminent physicians: "What is the best and only remedy that can be relied on to cure all diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs; such as Bright's disease, diabetes, retention or inability to retain urine, and all the diseases or ailments peculiar to Women?"

Ask the same physicians: "What is the most reliable and surest cure for all liver diseases or dyspepsia; constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malaria, fever, ague, &c.," and they will tell you:

"Mandrake or Dandelion!" Hence, when these remedies are combined with others equally valuable, and compounded into Hop Bitters, such a wonderful and mysterious curative power is developed, which is so varied in its operations that no disease or ill health can possibly exist or resist its power, and yet it is harmless for the most frail woman, weakest invalid or smallest child to use.

CHAPTER II.

"Altogether dead or nearly dying." For years, and given up by physicians of Bright's and other kidney diseases, liver complaints, &c., &c., called consumption have been cured. Women gone nearly crazy, &c., &c.

From agony of neuralgia, nervousness, wakefulness and other diseases peculiar to women. People drawn out of shape by exerting pains, rheumatism, inflammatory and chronic, or suffering from scrofula.

Erysipelas! Salt rheum, blood poisoning, dyspepsia, indigestion and in fact almost all diseases fruit.

Nature is her own healer. Hop Bitters, proof of which can be found in every neighborhood in the known world.

None genuine without a bunch of hops on the white label. Shun all the vile stuff with "Hop" or "Hops" in their name.

FUTURE PUNISHMENT.

I have secured the exclusive right to sell by subscription, within the Western Judicial District, a new work entitled "Future Punishment," that is being published by an Ontario firm. The work is written by three or four of the ablest men in Canada, and should be in the hands of every reader. I can guarantee this to be the most brilliant, ly written book of the age, and must secure an extensive sale in every section of the country. As it is to be sold by subscription only, I want to secure live agents, who will receive a handsome return for their services, in every part of this territory. Schoolteachers and others who have a little leisure on their hands, will find it to their interest to secure an agency. The first expense will be a prospectus showing the style of the writing, the several subjects on which it treats, and the different styles of binding. This will cost two dollars, and all that will be required to canvass with.

Parties who want to secure an agency will please communicate with me at once as I wish to establish agencies throughout the territory without delay.

FOREIGN.

Brandon, Nov. 18.—Anne Lyons was arrested to-day charged with poisoning her mother-in-law, the wife of John W. Lyons, of this city, by putting arsenic in the flour barrel when she was discharged from her position as cook. This was about three weeks ago, and the infant died after suffering ever since. An autopsy showed enough arsenic was in the barrel to kill the child in a day. The girl denies all knowledge of the poison.

Buffalo, Nov. 18.—Sebastian Beck, who left New York with twenty-five families early in 1875 for the Black Hills, struck here yesterday on his way home. He is destitute and was sent to the poorhouse to await the action of the state authorities, who are expected to give him transportation back to New York. He said that he reached the Black Hills all right, helped to build Deadwood and engaged in mining on the co-operative plan. During the first three months their net earnings amounted to $10,559 in gold. Soon after July 15, 1875, the little camp was raided by Sitting Bull's and his braves, who captured all hands and confiscated everything, including Beck's camp. Beck became separated from his family and has been unable to find out what became of them. He says that the Indians stopped him, painted him up and made him marry a squaw. The German Indian was made a chief and considered On-ka-wa-ge (Dakota for saying). Beck says the Indian agents are frauds, and that the redskins have been imposed upon. He said: "I don't blame Indians for burning ranches after having been swindled by villains who were government agents." Mr. Beck got away from the Indians two months ago. He will go to Washington to see Secretary of the Interior Lamar. Beck's escape was made with the aid of Major Walsh of the Northwest Mounted Police. A man named Rudolph was brought before Justice Crawford on Monday charged with stealing two ponies and some other articles. The possessor pleaded guilty and was sent to Brandon. It is a costly matter to send prisoners to the Indian Centre from this point, and many persons highly approve of the course taken by some magistrates who send the prisoners about their business.—Brattle Observer.

On Saturday last a farmer named Mr. Houtz, who lives east of Beulah, had his arm shattered by an accidental shot from a gun. The gun rested on some bags of meal, which formed the load of a wagon. The gun was in some way entangled by a halter and in removing the halter the gun was discharged. The wound is in the wrist and as some of the large arteries were severed, the loss of blood was very great and at one time faintness was so great that the injury would prove fatal. The Rev. Mr. Long, of Beulah, gives the information that more favorable symptoms are now visible.

The Pierre Signal says it has reason to believe that the survey-trailing from LaMoure to Pierre is the work of English capitalists in the interest of the Canadian Pacific. The road talked of is from Emerson to Cheyenne, in order to give the Canadian road a portion of Wyoming's cattle shipments. Benton, Montana, is said to have offered $100,000 bonus for a Canadian Pacific branch to that place.—St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

Says the Qu'Appelle Progress:—Mr. D. H. McMillan, of the firm of McMillan & Bros., was here on Monday last inspecting the progress of the work of putting in the machinery into the new mill. He stated that the firm would put on a grain buyer here the first of next week.

ONLY TOO TRUE.

No blushing daughter of the morn
Can vie with her of woman born;
No face at windows of the spring
Is like a virgin blossoming.

Between the two lids of the sky—
No orb there mates a maiden's eye;
Not mighty Mars' unfailing lance
Can match the mischief of its glance.

Nature, how weak art thou to harm
As does a dear unsleaved arm!
Thy rocks would twinkle into sand
With tangles from a dimpled hand.

What swaying shapes of sun or shade
Approach the motions of a maid!
What snowy curve by winter traced
Can take the taper of her waist!

And that soft darkness of her hair,
Thy twilight shades—ah, their despair!
Not all the striving stars beguile
As may one memory of her smile—

That foolish lips should speak so wise,
Make merriment, from earth to skies;
Nay, Nature, drop a dewy tear
For solemn knowledge bought so dear.

BUSINESS WOMEN.

The west is noted for its enterprising women, and in almost every town and city many women of superior excellence in business can be named. There is the women silk culturists and fruit raisers of California, the women stock raisers of Montana, the women farmers of Dakota and Minnesota, besides those engaged in other pursuits. These women as a rule are an independent class and capable of making their fortunes without the aid of the horrid men. In Minneapolis we also have women who show remarkable business ability. Several ladies have made fortunes in real estate deals. One lady especially by investing her money carefully in real estate, has become very wealthy. While many women have turned to larger fields in order to rise to fortune, the modest one of keeping a grocery store has not been overlooked, and we have in Minneapolis a number of women engaged in that kind of business. One woman especially is making a success of her undertaking, although in a quiet way. She has excellent business abilities, and can drive a bargain as well as the best business man. While being a modest little woman she understands her rights and how to maintain them, and the wily drummer never attempts to deceive her when selling goods. It on first acquaintance he thinks he has a "soft snap," as he calls it, he is soon undeceived when she looks over his stocks and gives him points on places. She is at the market bright and early, and there is not a grocer in the city who can surpass her for energy. She can put to shame many men who profess to be grocers. May she live long and prosper.—Northwest Trader.

KNOWING WHEN THEY ARE PRETTY.

There are men of experience who will confidently assert that a woman is lovely of face though they catch but a glimpse of the figure from behind, and they will be right nine times out of ten. Such are guided not by the eye alone, but by symmetry of shape and grace of movement. Ugly women have these qualifications, though as a rule it would be found that their ugliness belongs to that class which logicians would call "accidental." Wilkie Collins tells how one of his heroes conceived a glowing fancy of some young girl's face upon observation of her back; she turned, and proved to be a mulatto. That is what we should call an "accident." The beauty nature designed was marred by the luckless chance that her skin and features appeared only to negro taste. So it is with women under a variety of circumstances, infinite as the risks and combinations of human life. The experienced person is not deceived by inconsistencies of this kind. He brings knowledge of the world and mankind to bear. A woman who is beautiful cannot be ignorant of the fact—unless she be stupid; we read of such things with pleasure, as we read of other agreeable prodigies in romance. But when a girl-child perceives that she is welcome everywhere, that old people smile at her approach, that young men pay her more attention than her comrades get, she must be duller than are the majority of her sex if the suspicion that she is good looking does not strike her. In a few months suspicion becomes a delicious certainty. Whispers are overheard, glances caught, the mirror anxiously consulted gives pleasing assurance. Even if there be no servant, no complacent mother, nor good-natured friend of the family to set her doubts at rest, the warmth and frankness of boy lovers is proof enough. We do not believe that there ever was a girl living in the realms of the inhabitable globe who did not know her prettiness, if pretty she was, before reaching the age of 17; but it is sadly true that many girls who are not pretty fall into error on the point.—London Standard.

A CHAPTER ON SNAKES.

See Runline Reprints USA Adventures in the Cask etc.

Not in your boots or mine, I hope, good reader, for I don't believe in the beverage that hatches that kind. But as the "season" has opened and snake stories will be told by and to the summer boarders in the country, it is well to know something about Satan in scales. In the cold and lofty regions of the Catskills poisonous serpents are almost unknown. The hard winters are too much for them. The striped or garter snake and the brown water snakes which hibernate early and come out only when the days grow long and warm, both harmless, are the only reptiles seen in those sections.

But in lower altitudes the "rattler" and copperhead, the hissing adder and the horn-tailed snake, the latter scarce but very deadly, are found in certain sections of this State.

Much as I have hunted and fished in almost all the lakes and front streams, and through the forests of the State, I never saw but one horn-tailed snake, though two were killed on Schoharie Creek a year or so ago.

Last spring I was driving down the east branch of the Delaware, near Margaretville, on a trouting expedition, and on a dug-way near the river I checked my horses as I saw a snake over six feet long dart down the bank and across the road in front of me. It went slow enough for me to get a good view of it. It had a small, vicious-looking head, a rather large body and was striped in regular black and white rings—the latter, I should judge, to be two inches wide. I held my horses in, for I felt no anxiety to see a reptile like that mixed up among their legs. Its tail came out to a sharp bony point. I knew in an instant that it was the horn-tail, and on describing it to an old citizen in the village learned it had been seen two or three times in the same vicinity. It was soon after killed and was the only one ever heard of in that section. Another was killed on Alder Brook, in Ulster County, the same season. They have deadly poison in the horned tail, which they strike into a victim.

I was fishing one day on the Beaverkill and had just thrown a trout out on the bank that would weigh near a quarter of a pound and started out to pick it up for my basket. Before I reached it a brown watersnake, full four feet long, had that trout craved in his mouth and was making off with it pretty fast when I drew my revolver and sent a ball through his neck, which destroyed his appetite for raw fish. I did not basket the trout, however.

None of the water snakes of our Northern streams are venomous. The moccasin and cottonmouth of the southern waters are as deadly as the rattlesnake and in no way as chivalrous. The latter almost invariably give warning of its presence before it strikes. Therefore it is less to be feared than its almost constant companion—the "Pilot" or copperhead. Summer boarders, who choose cool, lofty and anti-malarial sections, if they avoid bad whisky need have no fear of snakes.—Ned Boulton, in N. W. World.

A Maple Plantation.

Mr. Duncan McArthur, of the Commercial Bank of Manitoba, has a plantation of young maples, a quarter of an acre in extent, his beautiful residence on the banks of the Red river, north of the city. The trees are about three feet high, planted in rows about two feet apart, and in clumps of some three and five. They are of the soft or ash leaved variety, and were grown from seed gathered last fall in Mr. McArthur's grove on the river bank. The seed was sown late in October, in mellow soil such as would be suitable for garden vegetables, and were planted as peas or beans would be. In spring the seeds started early and the ground was kept clear of weeds, but no extra work was done. The trees have succeeded thus far perfectly. Here is an example which every farmer in the Canadian Northwest might follow with profit and without loss of time. By doing so the treeless portions of the prairie might in a few years be transformed into a more beautiful appearance, with the graceful hedges and groves of these useful hardy trees. Every field might have a row or two of trees around it, making a good wind break and a cattle shade, not to mention the increase in the value of the farms thus protected and beautified. The work is so simple that no directions beyond those given above are required.—Nor. West Farmer.

MR. VAN HORNE.

Discusses Future Policy—Liberal Transportation Rates.

In answer to the question as to the probable rates to be charged by the C. P. R. for the transportation of minerals to the sea board, Mr. Van Horne stated that such rates would be framed as would tend to develop the mining and other industries of the country, and with a due regard to a reasonable profit on operating account, the determination of the company being to render every assistance in opening up and developing the resources of the country traversed by the system. Lumber, he said, could be shipped to the Northwest profitably from the Shuswap Lake and Columbia river districts. The haul from the coast would be too great to make the industry a lucrative one to the shipper. There was an excellent growth of timber in these sections, and the Northwest would become an extensive market for the timber men in the eastern section of this province, so far as the shipment of salmon was concerned, the C. P. R. would be in a position to handle that business as cheap and as expeditiously as any of the transcontinental lines, possibly at a less figure. The fresh salmon business was one that could be developed to an enormous extent. Every facility would be provided for this business, such as refrigerator and other cars of the latest design. The consumption of fruit in the Northwest was yearly increasing. This was an industry that would be of great advantage to British Columbia as beyond the harder classes of apples and berries he was afraid fruit culture in the Northwest would not be a success. That market was now supplied from California by a route many hundreds of miles longer than would be the distance from this province to Winnipeg, besides the additional cost on duty account. He would strongly advise that immediate attention be given to the cultivation of such fruits as pears, cherries, plums, grapes, apricots, peaches, etc. This country was admirably adapted to the growth of such fruits, while the market was ready to be practically an inexhaustible one. As to

BUILDING BRANCH LINES

In this province he was not in a position to say anything. In the Northwest the company were extending their branch lines, and no doubt when the requirements of this province were such as to warrant their doing so here doubtless all sections would be accommodated. The earnings of the company, notwithstanding all that had been said to the contrary, were satisfactory, in proof of which he stated for the past year the net receipts were $3,200,000. These results were obtained from a system that was disconnected in some sections, and the company not yet four years old—a result that must be highly gratifying to every true lover of his country taking an interest in the great national enterprise. He did not consider that snow interruptions on the Canadian Pacific would be greater than on any of its rivals crossing the continent. The idea that because it was further north and liable to greater snow blockades was a delusion. For the past two years the snow plough has been used but very little, and that principally in the Province of Quebec. The effect of the snow fall in the mountains would be watched this winter and precautions taken to prevent any blockade in traffic. Advantage will be taken of the winter to erect stations and other buildings, where these are not already constructed; ballasting the line from the end of their present system in the east to Savona's Ferry.

A SPLENDID LINE.

From Montreal to Columbia River the line was in splendid condition. It was the determination to maintain a high rate of speed for through trains, in order to complete the journey from Vancouver to Montreal in five days, and to the Atlantic seaboard in another twelve hours. The equipment would be the best to be purchased. On the question of freight transportation, Mr. Van Horne stated that he believed eleven days would cover the time necessary for the delivery of freight in Victoria from Montreal. At present there was a car-load of

on the way from Liverpool to the dock yard at Esquimaux, as an experiment, to test the rapidity with which naval stores could be delivered at Esquimaux. Merchandise for this city has been offered the company, but they were compelled reluctantly to decline accepting it from transportation. He was surprised that the farmers in British Columbia did not give greater attention to the cultivation of their farms. They not only could, but should, raise enough grain to supply the wants of the entire province with flour, pork, lard, butter, eggs, hogs, sheep, and etc., and lose no time in doing so, becoming, in their neighbors were in the east, an exporting instead of an importing community.

AN AMERICAN VIEW.

Manitoba's Wonderful Products at the Provincial Exhibition.

Mr. C. J. Ward, of Chicago, editor of the American Poultry Journal, who visited the recent Provincial Exhibition at St. Boniface, has the following remarks in the current month's number of his paper:

"The grounds were donated by the town of St. Boniface, consisting of 26 acres of scrub oaks and other trees—not a clear spot on it large enough to swing a cat—yet in the short time of six weeks these gentlemen not only cleared up the land, but built stalls, fences, cattle-sheds, poultry-houses, show ring, and a beautiful exhibition hall, all in the most substantial manner, and made all the needed arrangements for the fair besides. No one not comprehending the difficulties they had to contend with can appreciate the amount of labor these gentlemen did. But the result must have well repaid them, for although we have visited many fairs in the United States, we never saw a finer display of grains and vegetable products than were exhibited at St. Boniface. The howling idiot who wrote to his paper (in Ontario, we believe) that 'Manitoba was so poor in agricultural resources that she could not raise potatoes' should have been taken to St. Boniface, and after being shown the magnificent display of potatoes, have been headed up in a hoghead of mashed potatoes and compelled to eat himself out. By that time he would, no doubt, have come to the conclusion that Manitoba could raise potatoes. At any rate, we never saw in Illinois, or any other state, such fine potatoes or so many varieties, nor of such size as were exhibited at this fair. And this is true of other vegetables. Cauliflower as large as a peck measure, not one specimen, but lots of 'em; tomatoes, cucumbers, squash, pumpkins, beets, carrots, turnips and other vegetables of the very finest and largest size were displayed in abundance. And when you come to grain—such beautiful wheat we never saw before! oats weighing 35 to 54 pounds per bushel, gith, rye and barley to match—nothing lacking, in fact, but corn. That we can beat them on, but the thing that most astonished us was not only the excellence of all, but the enormous size, and all grown in the short summer months. Truly, Manitoba has no need to fear comparison of her products of the same kind, with any country on the globe. We offer no excuse to our readers for writing thus about a country that seems so far out of their way, for most people on this side of the line have an idea that Manitoba is a bleak, barren country that produces nothing but icebergs and cyclones, and a little information as to the real products will not come amiss. The display of cattle and horses was of, but not to be compared to that made by the state fairs in the United States. But that is a matter of time, for in a few years, at most, they will have as good as any one."

Public Notice!

All persons, including Lessees of grazing lands, are hereby required to take notice that the cutting of timber on the public lands without authority from the Minister of Interior, or the Local Crown Timber Agent of the Dominion Lands for the District, is forbidden by law; and all timber so cut without authority is liable to seizure and to be dealt with as the Minister of Interior may direct.

Each settler on a homestead quarter section not having timber on it, may on application to the Local Agent of Dominion Lands purchase a wood lot not exceeding twenty acres in extent, at five dollars per acre.

Any person other than a homestead settler desiring permission to cut timber, must make application to the Minister of Interior, who will deal with such application according to law.

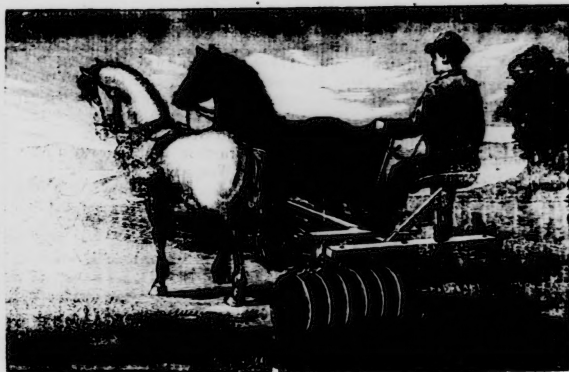

Persons who have already cut timber without authority, must pay the dues thereon to the Crown Timber Agent at his office, on or before the 1st May 1885, otherwise the said timber will be confiscated under the provisions of the Dominion Lands Act.

TOWN TOPICS

Mr. Hesson, Customs collector, has just been notified from Ottawa that his salary has been raised from $1,000 to $1,200 a year.

The celebrated real estate case of J. A. Smart, v. John Parker, was decided against the latter in the County Court here on Tuesday.

The gait of Captain Wastie walking around the streets these times reminds one of the illustrations of Hopful in Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress.

Mr. T. M. Daly and Judge Walker were at Deloraine the latter part of last week attending County Court, some ten cases were on the docket, and all were speedily disposed of.

Reeve Pettit, of Daly, has been confined to the house for some time, through an attack of inflammation of the lungs, but is now, able to be around again.

Messrs. Sword and Moor advertise a large supply of storm sashes on our first page. Although there has been no special need for them up to the present, the season is at hand when they will be required.

Mr. Beatty, of the North West Central, has a new announcement in our advertising columns. It is said he has disposed of over one million dollar's worth of stock, and is ready to commence work in the early spring.

The Hon. John Norquay has become the recipient of a medal through the Sec. of State, as a recognition of his valuable services to Canada. It ought to bear the impress of piece of soft coal, as an emblem of purity.

Mr. Henry Ross, late of the G. N. W. Telegraph here, but now on the M. and N. R. R., was in the city a few days last week, and returned on Tuesday, taking his household effects with him to settle down permanently in his new position.

Mrs. John Parr and Mrs. E. Hunter, of Bradwardine, were in the city on Monday, the first time since the former passed up the Assiniboine over three years ago to settle on her present residence. She is very much surprised to see the hamlet of a few tents grown into a city of Brandon's proportions in that short time.

Mr. D. J. McEwen arrived in Brandon last week on a visit from Montreal, where he is managing a large cotton mill. He says that though business takes him elsewhere, he prefers the climate of this province to that of any other part of Canada. After a brief sojourn he is to return east again.

One Reid, of the Oak River settlement, through an accident, came near losing his life, in returning from Brandon the other night. In some way, one of his feet caught in the waggon wheel, and his horses ran away throwing him out of the rig and leaving him in a semi-unconscious condition on the trail, until taken up by a passing team. He is recovering, however.

Mr. J. A. Mitchell now has the old Selby elevator fully under business headway, the first grain of the season having been taken in at it yesterday noon. The machinery is all in perfect order, the capacity is large and all the appointments are complete for handling wheat most expeditiously. With the five large elevators now in good running order there ought to be no longer any particular jamming of teams on the streets awaiting unloading.

The Free Press says: Miss Mary Carey, of Brandon, blew out the gas in her room at the Leland on Tuesday evening when she retired. She was soon fast asleep, being unaware of the danger that surrounded her. The escaping gas attracted the attention of other inmates of the house and the young lady was aroused. She soon came to her senses, turned off the gas and opened the window thus allowing the foul and deadly odor to escape. She had a very narrow escape.

A Bradwardine correspondent says: An item in your paper of relating to an Irish agrarian outrage near here is wrong. This outrage took place in a settlement where an Irishman could not live, namely amongst a settlement of old country Englishmen, who must have learnt some of this moonshining business from reading about it. I am informed there is one of said Englishmen, who has not lain in bed since the outrage took place, and he must hold his tongue or he will be used the same way.

Mr. T. J. Girdlestone, of Winnipeg, has been appointed collector of Leland Revenue here.

Mr. T. Nicholls, of Souris City, is now another wheat buyer on the Brandon Market.

There was a railway meeting at Chesley school house, in Oakland the other day, and the result of it is Reeve Hector and Councillor Clarke have gone to Winnipeg as a delegation, to further the extension of the South Western at Treherne, that way, such an extension would be a bad thing for Brandon, but Brandon cannot stand in the way of the development of the country.

THE MARKETS.

The wheat business continues as last week, the best grades running up to 70, but a drop of about 2 cents in the frozen article. The elevator receipts for the past week are nearly as below.

Ogilvie.....	24,500 bushels
McLaurin.....	24,000 "
McMillan.....	15,000 "
Alexander, Kelly & Co.....	9,000 "
Selby.....	2,000 "

Total.....74,000 "

The Selby just commenced on Tuesday.

Good barley brings 35c, and oats about 22c, butter 20c, eggs 15c, pork and beef the same as last week.

It appears almost impossible for the Grit print to remove itself from the gutter it was nursed in, when party interests are at stake. Because certain Aldermen supported W. C. Hunter for Returning officer, in Ward four, to prevent Mayor Smart and his proteges, from securing Grits for every booth in the city, these Aldermen and Mr. Hunter come in for the contents of its choicest billingsgate. If the truth was adhered to, even at this, there would be less to say. The charge is however made, that Mr. Hunter is a resident of Virden; but the facts are he is just as the Editor of the Sun is—he is simply a visitor there when business calls for it. Mr. W. A. Macdonald has opened a law office there, and Mr. Hunter goes up occasionally, when business calls for it. He is now, however, in the city and likely to remain here until the elections are over. Will the Sun have the manliness to give the same prominence to the correction that it gave to the falsehood?

KIND WORDS FOR WOMEN

Women are afflicted by trifles, but they are also consoled by trifles.—Victor Hugo.

The language of women should be luminous but not voluminous.—Douglas Jerrold.

An ounce of mother, says the Spanish proverb, is worth a pound of clergy.—Higginson.

Trust not a woman when she weeps, for it is her nature to weep when she wants her will.—Socrates.

If the whole world were put into one scale, and my mother into the other, the whole world would kick the beam.—Lord Langdale.

They that marry ancient people merely in expectation to bury them, hang themselves in hope that one will come and cut the halter.—Thomas Fuller.

A fine lady is a squirrel-headed thing, with small airs and small notions; about as applicable to the business of life as a pair of tweezers to the clearing of a forest.—George Eliot.

Little eyes must be good tempered, or they are ruined. They have no other resource. But this will beautify them enough. They are made for laughing, and should do their duty.—Leigh Hunt.

There are many woman who have never intrigued, and many men who have never gamed; but those who have done either but once are very extraordinary animals, and are more worthy of a glass case when they die than half the exotics in the British museum.—Colton.

To a man who is uncorrupted and properly constituted, woman remains always something of a mystery and a romance. He never interprets her literally. She on her part, is always striving to remain a poem, and is never weary of bringing out new editions of herself in novel bindings.—James Barton.

Mr. C. J. Ward, of Chicago, editor of the American Poultry Journal, who is well known in Winnipeg as having acted as judge at the exhibitions of the Pet Stock Club during the past two years, has kindly acceded to a request from the council of the Manitoba Board of Agriculture to prepare a design for a building, to be erected at St. Boniface in time for next season's exhibition, solely for poultry exhibits. The building will be specially adapted for the purpose for which it is intended and will embrace all modern improvements as adopted at American exhibitions.
